Further information on the Trust:

Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust provides a range of medical services to approximately 420,000 people living across southwest London and northeast Surrey. In addition, we provide more specialist services, in particular renal and neonatal intensive care, to a wider area, covering parts of Sussex and Hampshire.

We own and run four hospitals: St Helier Hospital and Queen Mary's Hospital for Children in Carshalton, Epsom Hospital and Sutton Hospital. In addition, we provide services from a number of other local hospitals. We also have nine renal centres throughout the area, as well as the Elective Orthopaedic Centre (EOC).
